Dr. James F. Reardon, J.D.
 Senior associate, MLL, Geneva, Lecturer on economic sanctions
 and ABAC/AML at the IBL,
 University of Fribourg

Dr. James F. Reardon has practiced for about five years at a global law firm, focusing on international bribery and corruption, economic sanctions, complex litigation, and compliance. Upon his return to Switzerland in 2018, his practice gravitated towards complex international litigation and arbitration, as well as on a variety of regulatory matters, in particular on economic sanctions since 2022. In 2019, he began teaching anti-corruption and anti-money laundering at the Institute for International Business Law of Fribourg University. In 2023, he began teaching economic sanctions at the IBL as well. He regularly publishes articles and blogs on issues related to corruption, compliance, and sanctions and is a guest lecturer on these topics.
